

Micro suction from only £35

Ear irrigation itself involves using a flow of low-pressure water via a specialised ear irrigator to harmlessly remove the earwax blockage. Quick and painless, ear irrigation at the Positive Hearing Clinic promises to have none of the hassle of waiting while catering to an important part of ear care.

Microsuction is an examination and treatment of the ear using a high powered binocular operating microscope. We use very fine delicate instruments, including a miniature vacuum cleaner.

Do you suffer from any of the following ?

- hearing loss
- tinnitus (hearing sounds from inside your body)
- itchiness in or around the ear
- vertigo (a spinning sensation)
- Earache
- ear infections

Chances are, these are one of the symptoms of ear wax

What can cause an earwax build-up?

Some people regularly get blocked ears because they naturally produce a lot of earwax.

Other factors that can increase the risk of too much earwax include:

- producing naturally hard or dry earwax
- having narrow or hairy ear canals (the tube between the opening of the ear and the eardrum)
- being elderly, as earwax becomes drier with age
- bony growths in the outer part of the ear canal

Earwax can also block your ear if you frequently insert objects into your ear canal, such as cotton buds, ear plugs or hearing aids.

What to do if you think your ear is blocked

Don't try to remove a build-up of earwax yourself with your fingers, a cotton bud or any other object. This can damage your ear and push the wax further down.

If the earwax is only causing minor problems, you can try buying some eardrops from a pharmacy. These can help soften the earwax so that it falls out naturally.

You can also visit us at www.positivehearing.org.uk

Just one quick appointment at any of our 2 clinics could make the world of difference to your hearing, with appointments available on the same day, with a qualified nurse and audiologist

If you would like our help with an ear wax removal procedure, call or drop in

Simply call 0330 220 5050

to book in for a 15-minute consultation and treatment

Alternatively, drop us an email

info@positivehearing.org.uk

or come in and visit us at one of our hearing clinics

144 London Road, Northwich CW9 5HH

27 Bridge Street, Macclesfield SK11 6EG

Solutions to transform your quality of life helping you regain your hearing and independence